

DPT Monthly Newsletter

Hello! We sincerely hope everyone continues to stay healthy. As our community slowly starts to open back up, we are doing the same and continually looking at recommendations as to how to do so safely. Spring is in bloom at the Donaldson-Bannister Farm, and we invite you to come enjoy our grounds anytime during daylight hours. Be sure not to miss our arbor of New Dawn roses. It earned us a spot on the AJC's list of best spring gardens! While you're enjoying the farm, please remember that social distancing is still required.

Our Programs Return May 18

The City of Dunwoody is allowing programming to resume at their city parks, including the Donaldson-Bannister Farm, on Monday, May 18. As DPT looks to proceed, please know we will strictly follow the latest guidelines set by the State of Georgia. Our first program will be Yoga at the Farm. Instructor Geri Magee will start leading classes on Thursdays and Saturdays. All yoga classes will be held outdoors, with 6-foot social distancing observed by all attendees.

Fun at the Farm Is Back!

The Governor of Georgia issued a new set of guidelines this week, which will allow day camps to be held this summer. That means Camp Flashback will start as planned the week of June 8. In addition to the guidelines set by the State, we will also be reviewing and implementing any recommendations specified by the CDC and the American Camp Association including daily temperature checks, and disinfecting all areas more frequently. One of the advantages of Camp Flashback is that we are a small camp and can take full advantage of our 3 acres of property for social distancing. And great news for our campers - the goats will be back, so everyone will get to feed and milk them - always a highlight of camp! And parents, please know that we always have your children's safety and welfare as our Number 1 priority. Interested? We still have a few openings available!

We're All Historians Now

We're living in historic times. Someday they will be a distant memory. For now, we need your help to record them for future generations. Do you have photos or videos you'd like to share? Or even written records - stories, poems, songs? Any acts of kindness and heroism? We would love to record these for future Dunwoody-ians. If you are interested, please contact us at DunwoodyPreservationTrust@gmail.com.
